

Adapting to protect our neighbours and our workforce

Construction work is permitted to continue throughout the coronavirus pandemic and to help minimise the impact of this virus on our workforce and our neighbours, the industry has adapted its working processes where necessary.

We have introduced the following steps:

- no non-essential visitors to site
- to reduce contact amongst the workforce, starting, break and finish times may be staggered throughout the day, which may impact the working hours of the site
- social distancing and face coverings used in line with Construction Leadership Council and Government guidance
- additional cleaning and hand sanitising points

Details about the current guidance and procedures in place for construction in the UK are available at
