

Protecting everyone's health during the pandemic

Construction work is permitted to continue throughout the coronavirus pandemic, and to help minimise the impact of the virus on our workforce and our neighbours, the industry has adapted its working processes where necessary.

We are operating within the current guidelines issued by the Government and the Construction Leadership Council, with the health and safety of those working on this site and those affected by the works being our highest priority at all times.

Details about the current guidance and procedures in place for construction in the UK are available at www.ccscheme.org.uk.
